To whom it may concern:

I recently needed help from Octagon Technology regarding some changes that were needed to my IT arrangements that were outside my control. As a result of problems that arose from these changes, I suffered a loss of data which, although ultimately temporary, required a lot of investigation to find out where the data had been stored. Both Clive Catton and Martin Mayes dedicated themselves to helping with this worrying situation and came up with a low cost and effective solution to prevent such an event occurring again in future.

Without hesitation I would heartily recommend Octagon Technology for their provision of backup solutions and small business IT support, to which all concerned are utterly dedicated.
